Foreword

Reliable and comparable statistics on various aspects of child labour is of key significance for research, policy, planning and implementation of programmes for elimination of child labour. In India besides a multitude of child labour surveys, the Census data has been the source of consistent information reflecting the relative magnitude of child labour among states and for analysing trends over a period of time. However, the census definitions of 'main' and 'marginal workers' and industrial classification system adopted therein, do not correspond to the definition and sectorial classification of child labour in Indian Legislation or child labour as defined as per ILO Conventions on child labour. It can then be used as a proxy indicator to the magnitude of child labour as also for analysis of trends and movements in size or distribution of child labour across the sectors.

The release of the age-wise work force participation rates by the Census 2001 in May 2006 has prompted the INDUS project to analyse the results. As a part of INDUS Child Labour Project's effort to gather and disseminate factual information on Child Labour, the project has put together this book, which presents statistical data in a form, which is easily usable by child labour practitioners. This book presents both a national picture and a state wise report card of key parameters in relation to child labour for all the 35 States and Union Territories.

We believe this book will prove to be a good policy tool to generate a debate, encourage discussions amongst stakeholders and plan effective measures to eliminate child labour.

INDUS Project team has consistently felt the need for good and reliable statistics on child labour. The project conducted a three day internal self review in June 2006, where it identified the need to analyse and present Census results in a user friendly form as important to generating a policy debate on child labour. It is in this context that the project has put together this book.

We would take this opportunity to place on record our thanks for the valuable advice, guidance and cooperation received from IPEC Headquarters colleagues Ms. Simrin Singh and Mr. Bijoy Raychaudhuri; and from ILO-Sub Regional Office colleagues, Ms. Leyla Tegmo-Reddy and Ms. Rie Vejs-Kjeldgaard and many others. We would also like to express our gratitude to Mr. Mr D K Sikri, Registrar General of India and Mr. Ramesh Chander Sethi, Additional Registrar General of India for taking interest and providing substantive comments on the book.

Our special thanks to Mr. Bhaskar Mishra for carefully and painstakingly analyzing the data, presenting it in a reader friendly form and for drafting the book. Mr. D. Balasubramanian provided the requisite secretarial support in an efficient manner. A special mention of thanks to him. Our thanks also go to Research & Publishing House for Printing this Report.

INTRODUCTION AND DATA HIGHLIGHTS

1.0 INTRODUCTION:

The primary objective of this report is to present a profile of working children aged 5-17 years at all India and State/UT levels as per Census 2001. The age-group 5-17 years (child workers as well as adolescent workers) was selected to keep the study in consonance with the target group selected under the ILO- INDUS Child Labour Project.

The all India and State/UT highlights are based mainly on the Table C 12 of 2001 census which gives cross-classification of Main, Marginal and Non-Workers in the ages 5-19 years attending educational institutions by economic activity and by sex. This table corresponds to table C-4 of 1991 Census.

The Main, Marginal and Non-Workers have been defined as under in 2001 Census:

- Main Worker: Those workers who had worked for the major part of the reference period (i.e. 6 months or more) are termed as Main Workers.
- Marginal Worker: Those workers who had not worked for the major part of the reference period (i.e. less than 6 months) are termed as Marginal Workers.
- Non-Worker: A person who did not work at all during the reference period was treated as Non-Worker. The Non-Workers broadly constitute Students who did not participate in any economic activity paid or unpaid, household duties who were attending to daily household chores like cooking, cleaning utensils, looking after children, fetching water etc. and are not even helping in the unpaid work in the family form or cultivation or milching, dependant such as infants or very elderly people not included in the category of worker, pensioners those who are drawing pension after retirement and are not engaged in any economic activity. Beggars, vagrants, prostitutes and persons having unidentified source of income and with unspecified sources of subsistence and not engaged in any economically productive work during the reference period. Others, this category includes all Non-Workers who may not come under the above categories such as rentiers, persons living on remittances, agricultural or non-agricultural royalty, convicts in jails or inmates of penal, mental or charitable institutions doing no paid or unpaid work and persons who are seeking/ available for work.

Based on this table, a cross-classification of Main, Marginal and Non-Workers in the age-group 5-17 years attending educational institutions by economic activity and by sex has been worked out at all India and State/UT levels. While presenting the results, the main aim was to present an overall picture of population aged 5-17 years by depicting the following:

1. Distribution of population aged 5-17 years by sex, by Rural & Urban and by Main, Marginal & Non-Workers separately.
2. Distribution of Main, Marginal and Non-Workers separately by Sex, by attending educational institutions or not and by sex thereof.

3. Share of Workers (Main and Marginal taken together) in the total work force of the respective State/UT as also at all India level.

Apart from the above analysis, distribution of the general population (all ages) has also been analysed by sex, by work status (i.e. workers and Non-Workers) and by main & marginal work status of workers.

Besides, distribution of population aged 5-14 years has been analysed by sex, by work status (i.e. Workers and Non-Workers) and by main & marginal work status of workers along with the share of workers aged 5-14 years in the total work force of the respective State/UTs and of India on the whole.

The information relating to general population (all age groups) and population aged 5-14 years will help in understanding the overall complexity and concomitant factors of child labour.

In addition, a series of information in the form of tables has been provided in this report to provide the readers with a unique opportunity of accessing crucial information on child labour at one place. The following table gives an insight into contents of these tables.

Table No.	Title of the table	Contents
1.1	Distribution of Population (all ages, 5-14 years, 15-17 years and 5-17 years) by Work Status as per Census 2001.	Table has all India and State/UT wise distribution of respective populations into Main, Marginal and Non-Workers.
1.2	Distribution of Population (all ages, 5-14 years, 15-17 years and 5-17 years) by Sex as per Census 2001.	Table has all India and State/UT wise bifurcation of respective populations into males and females.
1.3.1 to 1.3.3	Distribution of Workers by Sex as per Census 2001.	Tables have all India and State/UT wise distribution of workers (i.e Total Worker, Main Worker and Marginal Worker) by Sex. Table 1.3.1 pertains to workers of all age group, table 1.3.2 to workers of 5-14 years and table 1.3.3 to workers of 5-17 years.
1.4.1 to 1.4.3	Distribution of Population by Work Status and Sex as per Census 2001.	Tables have all India and State/UT wise distribution of Population, total worker and total non-worker by Sex. Table 1.4.1 pertains to workers of all age group, table 1.4.2 to workers of 5-14 years and table 1.4.3 to workers of 5-17 years.
1.5	Percentage of Workers in the respective Population total as per Census 2001.	Table gives the all India and State/UT wise percentage of workers (all ages, 5-14 years and 5-17 years) to their respective population total.
1.6	Distribution of Workers (aged 5-14 years) by their work status in 2001 vis-à-vis 1991 and percentage change thereof.	Table presents the all India and State/UT wise distribution of child workers (main, marginal and total child worker) in 2001 as compared to 1991 and percentage change thereof to facilitate decadal comparison.

1.7	Number of Workers (aged 5-14 years) since 1971 and Index on base 1971 thereof.	Table gives the all India and State/UT wise number of child workers in 1971, 1981, 1991 and 2001 to map the magnitude of child workers across different census periods. Workers Index on base 1971 has also been depicted to reflect the temporal change.
1.8.1 to 1.8.2	Distribution of Population by status of attending educational institution, work status and sex as per Census 2001.	Tables have all India and State/UT wise distribution of population by status of their attending educational institution, work status and sex. Table 1.8.1 pertains to population of 5-14 years and table 1.8.2 to population of 5-17 years.
1.8.1(a) to 1.8.2(a)	Percentage distribution of Population by status of attending educational institution, work status and sex as per Census 2001.	Tables give the all India and State/UT wise percentage distribution of population by status of their attending educational institution, work status and sex for age group 5-14 years and 5-17 years respectively.
1.9	Distribution of Main and Marginal Workers (aged 5-14 years) by Industry Category as per Census 2001.	Table gives the all India and State/UT wise distribution of Main and Marginal workers by Industry categories. This table has been carved out from the Census Advance Tables(1.1- Main Workers classified by age , Industrial Category and Sex and 1.2- Marginal Workers classified by age, Industrial Category and Sex) of B Series. **
1.10	Distribution of Population (aged 5-14 years) by work status at district level as per Census 2001.	Table depicts the number of persons and its distribution into Main, Marginal and Non-Workers for all the districts in India.

*The advance tables have been generated on a sample of 10 percent Enumeration Blocks selected for providing provisional estimates of distribution of workers by broad industrial categories except for some smaller States/UTs where the provisional results are based on actual count. For selection of sample, linear systematic sampling method has been used. In states where a sample has been used, the estimated values have been obtained by applying a multiplier of 10 as the effective sample size is 10 per cent which may not match with the actual number of main and Marginal Workers as shown in other tables. In order to facilitate better understanding, the information from these two tables has been clubbed. In Census 2001, the classification of economic activity has been done as per NIC 1998 which is a modified version of NIC 1987 used in Census 1991. Apart from the Cultivators and Agricultural Labourers, the table has categorization of the workers in HHI and Other Workers in the nine categories of economic activity formed by grouping together the 17 tabulation categories of NIC 1998.

2.0 DATA HIGHLIGHTS:

- India has a total work force of 4022.35 lakhs (39.10 per cent of the total population). Out of this, 3130.05 lakhs (77.82 per cent) are Main Workers and 892.30 lakhs (22.18 per cent) are Marginal Workers.
- In the age group 5-14 years, the total work force in India is 126.67 lakhs. Out of this, 57.80 lakhs (45.6 2 per cent) are Main Workers and 68.87 lakhs (54.38 per cent) are Marginal Workers.
- Similarly, in the age group 5-17 years, the total work force in India is 283.48 lakhs. Out of this, 151.21 lakhs (53.34 per cent) are Main Workers and 132.27 lakhs (46.66 per cent) are Marginal Workers.
- The share of workers in the country aged 5-14 years and 5-17 years to the respective population total are 5 percent and 9.08 per cent respectively.
- The share of workers aged 5-14 years and 5-17 years in the total work force of the country is 3.15 per cent and 7.05 percent respectively.
- In India, amongst Main Workers in the age group 5-14 years, only 14.07 per cent workers were reported to be attending educational institutions. The situation of Marginal Workers was better with 36.68 per cent attending educational institutions. However, a worrying fact is that a substantial number (i.e. 32.35 per cent) of Non-Workers were not attending any educational institution.
- Similarly, amongst Main Workers in the age group 5-17 years in India, only 8.67 per cent were reported to be attending educational institutions. Here also, the situation of Marginal Workers was better with 28.24 per cent attending educational institutions. A substantial number (i.e. 32.44 per cent) of Non-Workers not attending any educational institution continues to remain a worrisome fact.
- The State/UT with the highest share of workers aged 5-14 years in the total population of the State/UT was Mizoram (12.34 per cent).
- The State/UT with the lowest share of workers aged 5-14 years in the total population of the State/UT was Lakshadweep (0.19 per cent).

- The distribution of total workforce aged 5-14 years as per census 2001 in different industry categories at all India level is presented below:

Industry category		Percentage
A(Agriculture, Hunting & Forestry) & B(Fishing)		20.28
C(Mining & Quarrying)		1.06
D(Manufacturing & Repairs)	HHI	22.53
	NHHI	25.48
E(Electricity, Gas & Water supply)		0.11
F(Construction)		5.75
G(Wholesale & Retail Trade)		10.02

J(Financial Intermediation)& K(Real Estate, Renting etc.)		1.26
L(Public Administration etc.) to Q (Extra Territorial Organisations and Bodies)		10.03
All Categories		100.00

- As compared to 1991 Census, there has been an increase of 10.68 per cent in workers aged 5-14 years in 2001 Census (excluding the State of Jammu & Kashmir).
- Between 2001 and 1991 in terms of absolute number, the category of Main Workers aged 5-14 years has decreased considerably by well over one- third (36.97 per cent).
- However, over the same period there has been a manifold increase of Marginal Workers aged 5-14 years (207.10 per cent).

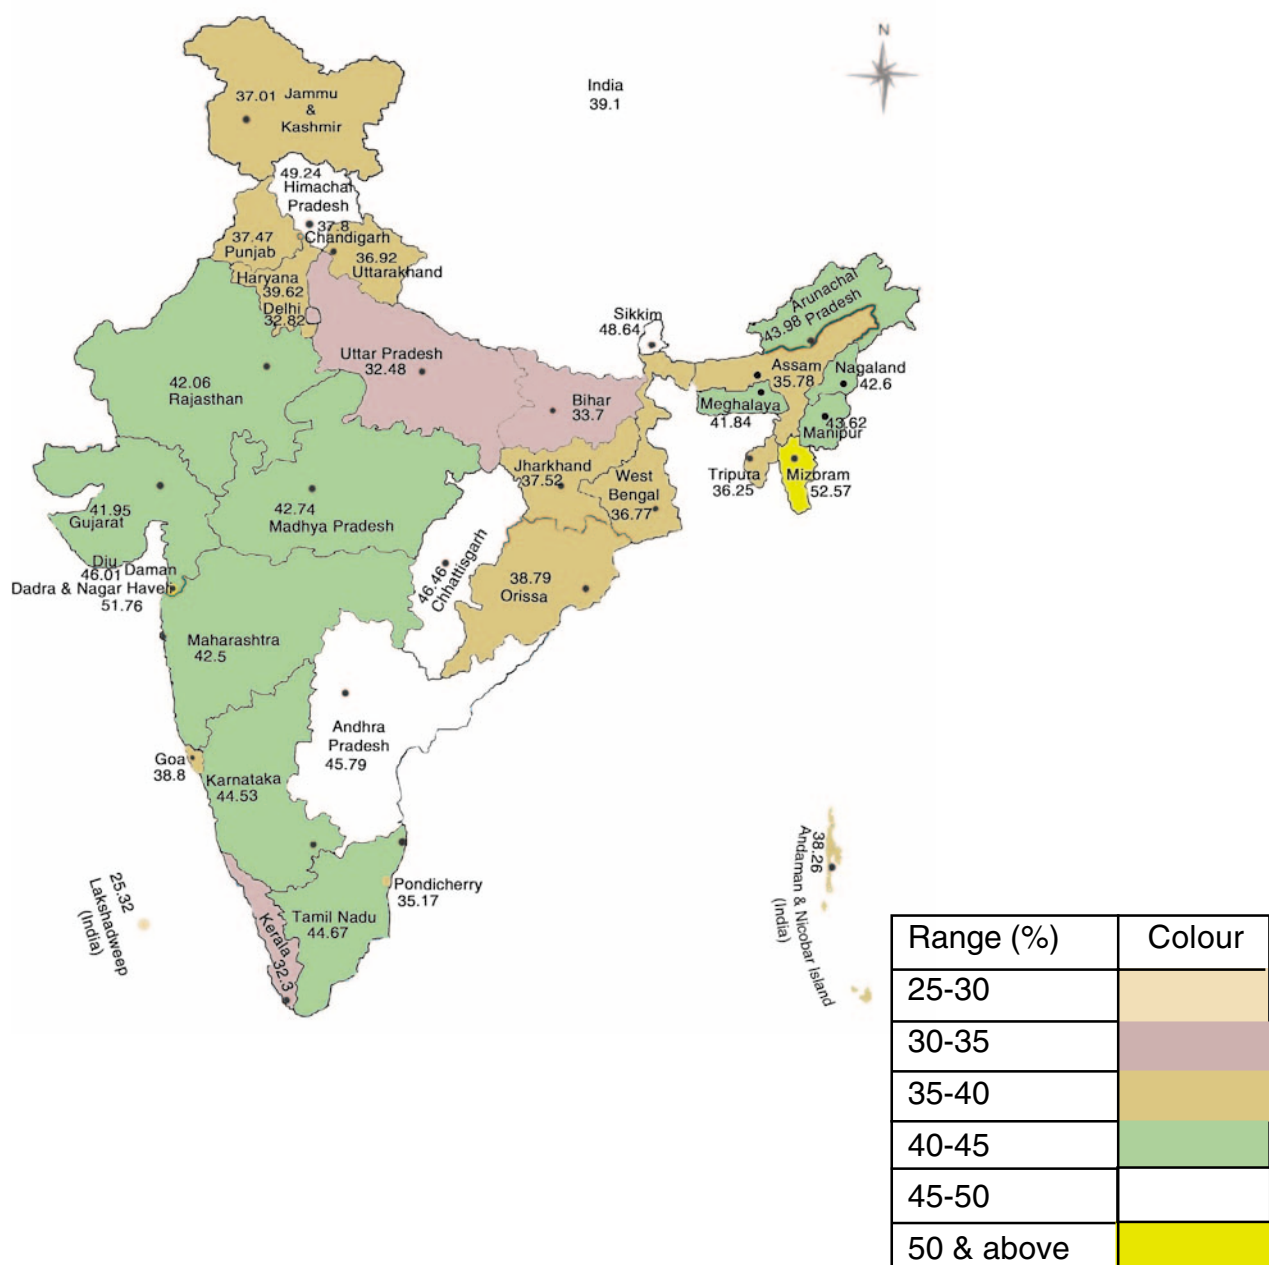

- A similar comparison of workers aged 5-14 years across different State/UTs (Jharkhand, Uttarakhand and Chhattisgarh has been merged to Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh respectively for comparison) reveals following picture:

State/UTs showing % decline in 2001 as compared to 1991	State/UTs witnessing % increase in 2001 as compared to 1991
Dadra & Nagar Haveli (-3.22), Gujarat (-7.27), Goa (-11.13), Karnataka (-15.74), Orissa (-16.53), Andhra Pradesh (-17.97), Lakshadweep (-20.59), Daman & Diu (-22.53), Kerala (-24.84), Tamil Nadu(-27.65), Maharashtra (-28.49), and Pondicherry (-28.96)	Madhya Pradesh (5.71), Assam (7.27), West Bengal (20.43), Punjab (24.08), Tripura (32.03), Uttar Pradesh (41.71), Arunachal Pradesh (49.11), Delhi (53.19), Andaman & Nicobar Is. MAPPING OF WORKERS IN INDIA

This Chapter contains all India and State/ UTs wise brief analysis of Census 2001 results for general population (all ages), population aged 5-14 years and population aged 5-17 years. Under general population and population aged 5-14 years, the respective population totals have been analysed by sex and by work status. For population aged 5-17 years, cross-classification analysis of Main, Marginal and Non-Workers attending educational institutions by economic activity and by sex has been done. The basic data for the said analysis is depicted in Table 1.8.2. For the benefit of readers, similar data for population aged 5-14 years has been given in Table 1.8.1.

ILO CORE CONVENTIONS ON CHILD LABOUR

Minimum age Convention, 1973, (No. 138)

One of the most effective methods of ensuring that children do not start working too young is to set the age at which children can legally be employed. The main principles of the ILO's 1973 Convention concerning the minimum age for admission to employment concern:

- Basic minimum age

The minimum age at which children are allowed to start work should be set at 15, or at the age at which children finish compulsory schooling.

- Dangerous work

Any work which jeopardizes children's physical, mental or moral health should not be done by anyone under the age of 18.

- Light work

Children between the ages of 13 to 15 years old may do light work, as long as it does not threaten their health and safety, to stop them from attending school or participating in vocational orientation and training programmes.

The Convention also recommends that the minimum age for employment should not be less than the age of completing compulsory schooling.

	GENERAL (The minimum age at which children can start work)	EXCEPTION CASES
Basic Minimum Age	15	14
Dangerous work	18	16
Light work	13-15	12-14

The worst forms of child labour (Convention No.182)

The adoption of Convention No. 182 helped to focus the spotlight on the urgency of action to eliminate, as a priority, the worst forms of child labour, which it defines as:

- All forms of slavery or practices similar to slavery, such as the sale and trafficking of children, debt bondage and serfdom and forced or compulsory labour, including forced or compulsory recruitment of children for use in armed conflict;
- The use, procuring or offering of a child for prostitution, for the production of pornography or for pornography performances;
- The use, procuring or offering of a child for illicit activities, in particular for the production and trafficking of drugs as defined in the relevant International treaties;

- Work which, by its nature or the circumstances in which it is carried out, is likely to harm the health, safety or morals of children (Article 3).

A distinction can be drawn between two categories of the worst forms of child labour:

- Those that are “unconditional” worst forms of child labour, referred to in Article 3(a)-(c) of Convention No. 182 above, that are so fundamentally at odds with children’s basic human right that they are absolutely prohibited for all persons under the age of 18;
- hazardous work, as defined by national legislation, that may be conducted in legitimate sectors of economic activity but that is nonetheless damaging to the child worker.

Focus on children as well as on work

The concept of the worst forms of child labour help to focus attention on children, as well as on the work they perform. These forms of child labour are not only the most intrinsically harmful, they are also the ones that are performed by the most vulnerable children. The boundaries of hazardous work are therefore not always easy to draw, especially when the harm being done to children is not obvious in the short term. Hazardous work had already been singled out in Convention No. 138 as requiring a minimum age for admission of 18 years old or older (Article 3(1)). Its identification as a worst form of child labour adds impetus to the drive to eliminate it.

THE STATISTICAL INFORMATION AND MONITORING PROGRAMME ON CHILD LABOUR (SIMPOC)

SIMPOC is the statistics and monitoring unit of the ILO's International Programme on the Elimination of Child Labour (IPEC). SIMPOC was launched in 1998 in response to the growing need for more comprehensive statistics on child labour. The programme built on the work undertaken by the ILO Bureau of Statistics from 1992-97 on the development of statistical methodologies for collecting data on child labour (CL).

Since its inception, SIMPOC has provided technical assistance to over 60 countries in the collection, processing and analysis of CL data and information. More than 250 CL surveys have been supported to date, 56 of which were national in scope. An additional 80 baseline surveys and 100 rapid assessments were supported targeting specific groups of child labourers in particular geographical locations. SIMPOC data has enabled ILO to publish global and regional CL estimates for the 2000 and 2004 reference years, and a first-ever analysis of CL trends for the 2000-2004 period¹

The data and qualitative information generated by the various SIMPOC instruments form essential inputs to child labour policies and programs. Further, their availability promotes research and raises awareness of the problem of CL. The data and studies are made accessible through various publications and a data repository on the SIMPOC website. Over the last few years SIMPOC has further refined the quantitative methods and survey questionnaires used in national child labour surveys (NCLSs) and vastly extended their coverage. Field manuals of CL data collection methodologies, and CL data analysis and reporting, developed by SIMPOC are available on the website. SIMPOC has also collaborated with UNICEF on the development of a manual for the Rapid Assessment (RA) Methodology with a view to gathering information on the less visible forms not easily captured by NCLSs.

Six basic methods have been applied to generate child labour statistics and information: (a) National child labour surveys (NCLS); (b) the Rapid Assessment Methodology; (c) Baseline Surveys; (d) Establishment-based Surveys; (e) Street Children Surveys; and (f) School-based Surveys. These CL surveys methodologies, however, are not mutually exclusive; instead they can be applied in a combined and complimentary way.

SIMPOC has encouraged and included in its mandate the need for accurate quantitative and qualitative data on CL that is gender-sensitive. SIMPOC's implementing partners are generally national statistics offices; ministries of labour or other government agencies responsible for children's welfare; research and academic institutions; employers' and workers' organization and NGOs, SIMPOC collaborated closely with other international organizations, notably UNICEF and the World Bank, to create synergies among existing data-collecting initiatives.

The legal and policy framework for all ILO work on CL is provided in two fundamental ILO Conventions; The minimum age convention, 1973 (No. 138) and the Worst Forms of Child Labour convention, 1999 (No. 182). With the rapid rise in the number of ratifications of Convention No. 182, the demand for SIMPOC technical support has increased strongly. For countries that have ratified this Convention, data collection is one of the necessary first steps in fulfilling the Convention's provisions to withdraw and rehabilitate victims of CL and prevent other children from becoming victims.

INDUS CHILD LABOUR PROJECT

In numerous forms and contexts, child labour exists all over India and the violation of human rights that it manifests has necessitated interventions at different levels.

Being a technical Co-operation project of the Ministry of Labour and Department of Education, Government of India and the United States Department of Labour, the INDUS, Child Labour Project is a concerted effort to develop sustainable models for a future without child labour. It seeks to provide all children with their inalienable right to education and childhood, by enlisting the support of relevant Government Ministries and Department at the national, state and local levels, employer's and workers organisation, NGOs, and Civil Society institutions.

The project is implemented in the states of Delhi, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh. The sector identified for focus on a priority basis are:

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--|
| ✦ Hand-rolled bidi cigarettes | ✦ Hand-blown glass bangles |
| ✦ Brassware | ✦ Hand-made locks |
| ✦ Hand-made bricks | ✦ Hand-dipped matches |
| ✦ Fireworks | ✦ Hand-broken quarried stones |
| ✦ Footwear (leather, rubber, plastic) | ✦ Hand-spun hand-loomed silk thread, yarn and fabric |

Beneficiaries

80,000 children are targeted under this project. There are four groups of direct beneficiaries in each district:

- ✦ Identified young child workers (5-8 years), who will be directly enrolled in regular schools;
- ✦ Older child workers (9-13 years), who will be provided with transitional education and support services.
- ✦ Adolescent workers (14-17 years), who will be provided with vocational training; and
- ✦ Parents of working children, who will be organised into self-help groups and later provided with skills for additional income generation.
