

Silvia Mwansa Chimpampwe
Research & Development Consultant

Silvia is a gender and development consultant with over eight years working experience with social economic issues as well as a strategic communication expert with extensive experience in international aid organisations, specialised in promoting sensitive aid and human rights issues.

With a MA in Sociology and a BA in Development Studies & Public Administration, Silvia has worked in key organisations including IOM, UNICEF (Zambia and The Gambia Country Offices), UNFPA, ILO and CARE International.

Among her core expertise includes providing strategic technical support to government and partners on social protection policy implementation, systems strengthening including development of monitoring frameworks, communication (C4D) and advocacy strategies, financial management & reporting, capacity building as well as systematic qualitative data collection predominantly on the situation of children and women to provide base-lines for result-based decisions on interventions and evaluations.

Silvia has extensive proficiency in policy development and analysis, ethnographic research with strong qualitative data collection and analysis. Her recent work includes technical support and programme mid-term review under the Government of Zambia - United Nations Joint Program on Social Protection, Government of Zambia - World Bank Girls Education and Women Empowerment and Livelihood Project (GEWEL) and development of a communication strategy on Children on the Move in The Gambia.