DIILM'S RESPONSES TO THE NEEDS OF MIGRANTS DURING THE COVID -19 PANDEMIC

In March 2020, thousands of Myanmar migrants rushed to the border to return home from Thailand and China to be with their families during the Covid -19 pandemic and because they had been temporarily laid off. ILO, together with the DIILM project partners immediately scaled up operations to ensure the safety of returning migrants and to curb the possible spread of Covid-19. Over the following six months, more than 150,000 migrants have returned from Thailand and China, with over ten thousand being repatriated from Malaysia, Jordan and other countries. The ILO has provided care packages or food aid to 107,000 returning migrants and supported PPE for government officials providing services to returning migrants on the border, in quarantine facilities and in labour exchange offices.

MAP Radio (<https://www.facebook.com/mapradiocmms/>) broadcast online in Shan and Myanmar to their 12,000 followers; while partners in Myanmar distributed pamphlets to nearly 30,000 returned migrants.

² Distribution is ongoing at time of publication

FUTURE INTERVENTIONS

DIILM continues to monitor the situation closely in order to advocate for longer term interventions for:

- Inclusion of migrants in social protection packages in Myanmar and in countries of destination;
- Migration policies that would allow migrants to migrate to countries of destination to fill existing labour shortages safely and without bearing the costs of quarantine and testing;
- Through collaboration across ILO projects, increase livelihood opportunities for returned migrants through job creation and support to set up small businesses;
- Greater access to vocational training and further education for returned migrants;
- Cash for work programs to support improving or building local infrastructure and developing climate change resilient communities.

The Developing International and Internal Labour Migration Governance in Myanmar (DIILM) (2016 - 2021) project works with tripartite constituents and civil society organisations in Myanmar to strengthen the legislative and policy framework governing labour migration. The people of Myanmar have long used migration as a survival strategy; for safe refuge and for livelihood. Improving labour migration governance can ensure a migration experience that is more beneficial for women and men migrants, and better contributes to the development of Myanmar. DIILM and the tripartite partners work to 1) support development of key legislation and policy; 2) promote decent work for all migrants including in the informal sector; 3) increase the coverage and the quality of services offered to migrants and 4) strengthen policy coherence.
