The KILM 9th Edition is a product of the Data Production and Analysis Unit within the ILO Department of Statistics. Marie-Claire Sodergren coordinated the production of the KILM, with invaluable contributions in the areas of data production, analysis and manuscript drafting from David Bescond, Evangelia Bourmpoula, Harvey Clavien, Rosina Gammarano, Messaoud Hammouya, Lê Anh Hua, Devora Levakova, Akiko Minowa, Yves Perardel, Alan Wittrup and Yanwen Zhu. Alan Wittrup developed the KILM interactive software. The KILM was supervised by Steven Kapsos, Chief of the Data Production and Analysis Unit.

The Team benefited from the strong support of Rafael Diez de Medina, Director of the ILO Department of Statistics and Chief Statistician, Ritash Sarna, Chief of the Department's Management Support Unit and the Microdata and Knowledge Management Unit through its Chief, Edgardo Greising and its Database Administrator, Christophe Vittorelli.

The continuing support from the Deputy Director-General for Policy, Sandra Polaski, and Sangheon Lee from her office is greatly appreciated. The ILO Research Department has provided ILO estimates and for that we thank Raymond Torres, its Director, as well as Moazam Mahmood, Ekkehard Ernst, Stefan Kühn, Santo Milasi, Steven Tobin and Christian Viegelahn. The Employment Department has also provided valuable comments and we thank Azita Berar-Awad, its Director, as well as all her team.

The KILM 9th Edition builds on the efforts of many ILO colleagues involved in the past production of the KILM databases and manuscripts over the past 16 years. In particular, the contributions of Sara Elder, Lawrence Jeff Johnson, Dorothea Schmidt and Theo Sparreboom are gratefully acknowledged.

Production of the KILM is dependent on the continuing efforts of national statistical offices throughout the world to collect, publish and disseminate information pertaining to their labour markets. The KILM also benefits from collaboration with ILO regional and other field offices, specifically in the sharing of information from national and regional statistical sources. A good deal of the information published is made available through the continued cooperation and support of additional organizations, including The Conference Board, the Statistical Office of the European Communities (Eurostat), the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the UNESCO Institute of Statistics, and the World Bank. It is with deep gratitude that we thank our contacts in the various organizations for taking the time to share their data with us.

We would like to express our thanks to the staff of the ILO Department of Statistics who have provided technical and administrative support throughout the whole process. We would also like to thank the ILO Department of Communication and Public Information for their continued collaboration and support. Finally, members of the KILM team wish to express their deep appreciation to any organization or individual not listed here who assisted or provided guidance during the development and implementation of the project.
