I. Obituaries

Mr Ashraf W. Tabani

1. The Director-General announces with great regret the death, on 16 July 2009, of Mr Ashraf Tabani, whose first attendance at the International Labour Conference as an Employers' delegate was at the 63rd Session in 1977 and who had served as an Employer member of the Governing Body of the International Labour Office since 1990. Mr Tabani was present at both the Conference and Governing Body sessions in June 2009.
2. Born in Rangoon on 17 December 1930, Mr Tabani received part of his education in the United States, graduating in Textile Engineering from the Philadelphia College of Textile and Science. The open, international outlook which characterized him must have been reinforced by this experience, and certainly stood him in good stead to guide one of Pakistan's foremost business groups, the interests of which span textiles, fashion garments, leather, tourism, automobiles, shipping, air transport, power generation, oil and gas, metals, chemicals, fertilizers, cement and medicines. At various stages of his career, he acted as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Industrial Development Bank of Pakistan, the Export Promotion Bureau, the Cotton Board of Pakistan, the Fisheries Board and the Pakistan Silk and Rayon Mills Association. From 1978 to 1981 and from 1985 to 2009 he was President of the Employers' Federation of Pakistan, and had the honour of holding the post of President of the International Organisation of Employers. He also served as Minister for Finance, Industries, Excise and Taxation in the Government of the Province of Sindh from 1981 to 1984, and as Governor of the Province from 1987 to 1988.
3. In his long association with the ILO he performed many vital roles within the Organization. He was Employer Vice-President of the Asian Regional Conference in 1991, Employer Vice-President of the International Labour Conference in 1993 and in 2008. His belief in the ILO prompted him to devote a huge amount of time and energy to improving its ways of operating. For this reason it was fitting that he should accept the appointment as Employer Vice-Chairperson during the 2007 discussions on strengthening the ILO's capacity to assist its Members to achieve its objectives in the context of globalization. This "great work" as he called it himself, was dear to his heart, and the ILO has emerged stronger thanks to his personal contribution to the powerful achievement that is the 2008 ILO Declaration on Social Justice for a Fair Globalization.
4. Mr Tabani's life and career were marked by a profound belief in social justice, a determination that the developing countries should not be left by the wayside of economic and social advance, and the conviction that employment, through decent work, was the principal route out of poverty. He will be remembered as a man of modesty, a devoted family man, a man of gentle manners but of convictions of steel, a man who truly espoused the values of the ILO and of tripartism.
5. The Governing Body will no doubt wish to request the Director-General to convey its condolences to Mr Tabani's family and to the Employers' Federation of Pakistan.

Mr Mohamed Samba Kébé

6. The Director-General announces with deep regret the death, on 26 July 2009, of Mr Mohamed Samba Kébé (Republic of Guinea), former General Secretary of the National Confederation of Workers of Guinea (CNTG) and former Worker member of the Governing Body of the ILO.

7. Born in 1942 in Boké, Mr Kébé first studied chemistry before entering the teaching profession. This charismatic trade unionist also served a number of causes close to his heart with unflagging energy, including the struggle against apartheid. His sense of commitment led him to occupy the post of General Secretary of the CNTG for 15 years, from 1985 to 2000. A convinced pan-Africanist, he became President of the Organization of Trade Unions of West Africa (OTUWA) and Vice-President and member of the Executive Committee of the Organization of African Trade Union Unity (OATUU), thus playing a vital role in the expansion of the African trade union movement.
8. In June 1990, Mr Kébé was elected Worker member of the Governing Body, a position he held until May 1993. From 1985 to 2000, he took part in 13 sessions of the International Labour Conference.
9. Mr Kébé will be remembered by those who had the privilege of working with him or simply knowing him as a great trade union leader, entirely devoted to the service of the Guinean, African and international working class. His death means a great loss for the global trade union movement.
10. The Governing Body will no doubt wish to invite the Director-General to convey its sincere condolences to the family of Mr Mohamed Samba Kébé and to the National Confederation of Workers of Guinea.

Mr Jack Coates

11. The Director-General announces with great regret the death, on 17 July 2009, of Wing Commander Jack Coates, DFC, CBE, former United Kingdom Employer delegate to the International Labour Conference and Employer member of the Governing Body.
12. Born on 28 September 1920, John Arthur Gordon Coates received a traditional British education and obtained a place at Trinity College Cambridge to study Mechanical Sciences in 1938. However, his university studies were interrupted by the Second World War; he enlisted in the Royal Air Force and began active operations in August of 1940. He saw action over the North Sea, the Aegean and the Mediterranean, flying reconnaissance sorties and providing support to convoys and land- and sea-based military actions. At the age of 21, stationed in the Western Desert in North Africa, he was promoted to squadron leader and flight commander. He was mentioned in despatches and, for an act of particular bravery, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross.
13. On leaving the RAF in 1946 Jack Coates studied personnel management at the London School of Economics, before joining Imperial Chemicals Industries (ICI) in 1948. He rose to become general manager for the coordination of the company's worldwide personnel. In 1980, he received a CBE for services to industry. He also chaired the Confederation of British Industry (CBI) International Labour Committee.
14. Jack Coates was the UK Employer delegate to the International Labour Conference from 1974 to 1980, and Employer member of the Governing Body from 1975 to 1981. He led the Employers' group during the discussions of the Tripartite Advisory Meeting on the Relationship of Multinational Enterprises and Social Policy, and thus played a crucial role in the drafting of the Tripartite Declaration of Principles concerning Multinational Enterprises and Social Policy (MNE Declaration), adopted by the Governing Body in November 1977. Thirty years later this groundbreaking text remains a key tool for promoting labour standards and principles in the corporate world. He also took on the role of Employer Vice-President at the 63rd Session of the International Labour Conference (June 1977).

15. Jack Coates described himself as an “employer of conscience”. In his view, what is now known as corporate social responsibility was simply the correct way in which to run a business. He was convinced that the world’s large companies and their activities were an effective means of advancing development in the developing nations, at the same time acknowledging misgivings that could arise about the power and size of such enterprises. He argued that the ILO should avoid wasting energy on political questions that fell outside its mandate, and should make the best use of its “great influence and prestige” in performing its core task: bettering the lives of the millions of working people across the globe. The Organization will remember Jack Coates as a man of courage, integrity and consensus, who always took the time to listen to, and understand, what his counterparts on the Government and Worker benches were saying, often pointing to potential areas of agreement, while clearly explaining the point of view of enterprise.
16. The Governing Body will no doubt wish to request the Director-General to convey its condolences to Mr Coates’ family and to the Confederation of British Industry.

II. Membership of the Organization

17. Under the terms of article 1, paragraph 3, of the Constitution and article 27 of the Standing Orders of the International Labour Conference, a Member of the United Nations may become a Member of the International Labour Organization by communicating to the Director-General its formal acceptance of the obligations of the Constitution.

Membership of the Republic of Maldives

18. In a letter dated 3 December 2008, received on 15 May 2009, the Government of the Republic of Maldives, which has been a Member of the United Nations since 21 September 1965, communicated to the Director-General its formal acceptance of the obligations of the Constitution of the International Labour Organization.
19. The Republic of Maldives accordingly became the 183rd member State of the International Labour Organization on 15 May 2009.
